But i use Diagbox as its the only way Ive found to get an exe out of the ecu when programmed with the original vci, and yes this is the trouble. Once programmed with a new VCI it loses access to corellexia Diagbox works if fault codes & programs copied to hard drive, Diagbox is a program that extracts fault codes from a programmed ECU chip. So basically its a good way of getting to fault codes for repair purposes. Pretty much a waste of money, i managed to solve the problem with Diagbox 7.02 using a vin 00001 as long as its the ecu thats been programmed and i have the .bin file program from the original vci. Now it is possible to set the vertical height of a row which uses diagbox to be smaller. Fix the issue that Diagbox is not working with Citroen C3. The setarstrut and cellspace options will not work anymore. The only solution I have found is to set the height manually in the HTML file. Unfortunately, the CSS file has no means to set the height of a row. See more information in the ZIP file attached. All worked. I was getting close, but the fonts were still way too big. Then I realized that when opening the mini app, the program took over the system font settings, effectively ignoring the specified font settings in the LEXIA-3 and DIAGBOX files. I think I will have to play with the microsoft fonts program to make a custom one. Or at least make a bigger one than the current one. This program is very useful. I am working on a website trying to get it to stream some articles and pictures. I am using a diagbox that I think was the first to do online. I downloaded the program, read the manual, and set it up. Once I got the online diagbox working on my site, I tried to get the offline diagbox to work, and it did not work. The little icon just kept spinning. To make a long story short, I found the online diagbox does not work on Windows Vista; on XP, it functions fine.

does its best to be simple to use, but if you are not careful you may have a long learning curve and not get the expected results from the software because it is still too technical and hard to understand. Diagbox software does not have advanced functions like the later version that you have to learn, if you do not want to spend time for that, this is the right one for you.
